An Invitation to Women

emember your daughters as they turn into women are subject to same sufferings—to the headaches, backaches, hot flashes, dizziness, meme nervousness, low spirits, lassitude—which afflict so many women times. But the condition indicated by these symptoms may be reme-

No suffering woman should seek the treatment of any unskilled person who has not had special training in the care of the delicate feminine constitution. I therefore invite every invalid woman to consult our Staff of Physicians, Surgeons and Specialists at the Invalide' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, New York, by letter or personally at my expense.

sery could properly be listed as "Exhibit A." Hundreds of little tots have joyously romped there while their mothors have attended the lectures, knowing that Johnny and Mary were in the competent care of Mrs. Ida Quinney, the nurse in charge.

Desirous of attracting as many women as possible to the housekeepers' conferences, those in charge realized that many mothers could not conveniently leave the bubies at home, and, further more, would not want to bring them into the convention rooms. So the day nursery idea was hit upon, the suggestion coming from a church in Kansas City, which provides similar quarters for mothers who want to go to church, but who cannot unless the babies are cared for.

The day nursery at the college is a big, well-lighted, well-ventilated room in the main building. In one corner or it is an alluring sand pile, which has attracted scores of little tots during the last two weeks. Then there are many delightful toys, toy furniture and everything that the little ones lowe most to play with. And because the "sand mau" sometimes creeps into some of the tiny ones' eyes, "comfy" little heds and cradles are provided in which Nurse Quinney can put her little charges when their eyes get heavy.

Altogether, the day nursery has been one of the biggest successes of the roundup, because it has provided a convenient and safe place for mothers to leave their children while they attended the conferences, and has made the children about as happy as children could be. The accompanying hotographs were taken one day last week will fight the suit on the ground that his wife's allegations are not in good faith, inasmuch as he has been incarcerated in the county jail during the time set forth in the complaint and therefore could not provide for his wife.

Under the law in Utah a wife may sue for divorce on the ground that her husband has been convicted for a felony, but Mrs. Inlow did not elect to take that ground in seeking freedom from her marital ties.

Inlow has appealed to the supreme court to grant him a new trial and his case will be argued on appeal before the court next Tuesday. He was convicted of second degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment.
